ONLY ONE "BEST!"

Maysville People Give Credit Where Credit is Due

People of Maysville who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Maysville. Here's Maysville testimony.

Mrs. Elmer Bridges, 206 West Third street, Maysville, Ky., says:

"I consider Doan's Kidney Pills to be an excellent kidney remedy and one that deserves a trial by anyone afflicted with disordered kidneys. I was subject to attacks of kidney complaint from childhood, and as I grew older the trouble became more severe. In my efforts to find relief I tried remedies after remedies, but no benefit was obtained until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at J. J. Wood & Son's Drugstore. They proved to be just what I needed, going directly to the seat of my trouble and entirely relieving me. I always keep a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills on hand in case I have a return of the complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—take no other.

In Bad Fix

"I had a mishap at the age of 41, which left me in bad fix," writes Mrs. Georgia Usher, of Conyers, Ga. "I was unconscious for three days, and after that I would have fainting spells, dizziness, nervousness, sick headache, heart palpitation and many strange feelings. I suffered greatly with ailments due to the change of life and had 3 doctors, but they did no good, so I concluded to try Cardui.

"Since taking Cardui, I am so much better and can do all my housework."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Do not allow yourself to get into a bad fix. You might get in so bad you would find it hard to get out. Better take Cardui while there is time, while you are still in moderately good health, just to conserve your strength and keep you in tip top condition. In this way your troubles, whatever they are, will gradually grow smaller instead of larger—you will be on the up-grade instead of the down—and by and bye you will arrive at the north pole of perfect health. Get a bottle at your druggists' today.

Hear Roney Brothers tonight. 8 o'clock.

The steamer "Mildred Runyon" began Monday to run between Maysville and Portsmouth, making trips on alternate days between the two places. Fare 50 cents one way.

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETING

The Bible Society annual meeting will be held the first Sunday night in December at the Christian Church. Rev. R. L. Benn has been invited to deliver the address.

COAL THIEVES

Mr. James M. Rains of West Third street wants it distinctly understood that he has a tab on the fellow that is making after dark visits to his coalhouse and helping himself. Mr. Rains is not the only sufferer in that line.

THE WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC

Mr. J. Paul Daley, representing the Vigilance and Protective Association of America, spoke at the First M. E. Church, South, last evening, on the White Slave Traffic in the United States. Among the many things that were revealed to the audience was that the number of prostitutes had doubled in the last ten years, and in many instances girls were found in resorts who were graduates of the leading Colleges and Universities of the country, and that the city of Lexington was the worst that he had experienced in his two cruises around the world.

Mr. Daley suggested the establishment of a Juvenile Court as an agent in diminishing the traffic, and at the close of his remarks a Circle was organized to assist in rounding up girls of tender age and placing them under better environment.

OFF TO WED

Miss Anna Klipp and Mr. Harry M. Clark left this morning on the 8 o'clock C and O. train for Covington, where they will be joined in holy wedlock this afternoon at the home of the officiating Minister, Rev. George W. Bunton, formerly Pastor of the Third Street M. E. Church, this city.

The bride-to-be is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Klipp of East Third street, and is a most charming and excellent young lady and a prime favorite in her social set.

Mr. Clark is the competent Cashier at the C. and O. Freight Depot, and is a young man worthy of the lady he has chosen for a life partner.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple will leave for Columbus, O., to spend Thanksgiving with the groom's parents. On their return they will take up their abode with the bride's parents in East Third street.

Mr. Charles B. Pearce and Colonel F. H. Bierbower are about the same as reported in yesterday's paper.

In all probability Richmond will not be represented in the Bluegrass Baseball League next year. The Club is about $3,000 in debt and the owners think of going into liquidation and paying off what is owed.

ALL ABOUT THANKSGIVING DAY

WHEN Captain Miles Standish, with his little company of 16 hardy pilgrims, discovered the first fresh water encountered by the Mayflower explorers after landing at what is believed to be East Harbor creek, on the shores of Cape Cod, the party sat down and drank, and as Mount records in his journal or story:

"We were heartily glad and drunke our first New England water with as much delight as ever we drunke drink in all our lives."

Thus was, with "Bisket and Holland Cheese, and a bottle of aquavite," the first New England Thanksgiving dinner eaten on the noon of November 26, 1620, around "a fire of sassafras, juniper and pine, which smelled both sweet and strong."

Later these hardy adventurers were able to feast on wild fowl and venison in plenty, as have those who came after them even unto the present day, for the forests of the cape abound with game, and the waters with fishes very much as in the days of the little Pilgrim band who in the Mayflower's cabin signed the first New England charter.

Although not set down in the laws, the reunion feast became an informal annual function, and there can be but little doubt that Thanksgiving day as known to us of the present had its origin in and was inspired by the ability of the pilgrim band to soften the strong waters of the hospitable Dutch with the spring waters of the new world, by chance shall we say? Or to what cause shall we credit the selection of the last week of November for the day of feasting and prayer now so eagerly looked for and as carefully observed as Christmas, the New Year or Independence Day? The day of thanks is more typically a national holiday than is any other. It is American and unique. Every country has one or more days set apart to commemorate independence or the granting of some great boon to its people that may be considered a step on the stairway to liberty, but the Thanksgiving day of the United States is without a close comparison in any land. Thanksgiving day begins the winter season.

Wherever you find an American you will, as the month of November wanes, find one who thinks more of being at home or at the home of intimate friends for Thanksgiving day. Clubs, hotels, public institutions, all see to it that their patrons, members or inmates are provided with a sumptuous repast for the one great feast day, and whenever and wherever possible a great, fat turkey graces the board.

The turkey should be our national bird, as it is, or, rather, was everywhere in a wild state, and helped the original colonists to provide for their families. It has for 300 years been the chief feature at all important strictly American banquets, and may be safely called our greatest national food delicacy. The Spaniards in Florida, French in Louisiana, Pilgrims in Cape Cod and founders of the Virginia company all found the wild turkey ready for the sport and table in this their new home, and the American of today, from the president of the United States to the humblest citizen of the country, will enjoy the Thanksgiving turkey.

If one would enjoy a good old fashioned Thanksgiving day at its best the true road to the feast lies in the country. Thanksgiving on the farm is something to be remembered. There the whole family is taken into consideration, and it is safe to say that each individual member has been preparing for the day almost ever since the celebration of the last one.

Stores of mince, apple and pumpkin pies have been baked and range on the broad shelves of the store room; apple sauce, preserves, with home-made pickles, "put down" months before required for use; stores of grapes, apples, pears and nuts, carefully looked over; a goodly ham, freshened in cold water 24 hours, then carefully wiped dry and placed in a pot of cider to boil 15 minutes to the pound; a loin of pork, roasted to a rich, golden brown, to be served with apple sauce, and the feature of the feast—a turkey, fattened to about the 20-pound mark, the pride of the farmer and the joy of his wife.

The turkey, hatched on the farm and as carefully watched as any member of the family, fattened on grain and meal with a mixture of chopped nut meats to give it the proper flavor, killed one week before the feast and hung in an out-house, where it is kept cold, but will not be injured by the frost, is brought in the night before for final treatment before being consigned to the oven.

The great bird is carefully picked and drawn, the interior wiped out, not washed, which would destroy the flavor, and filled with what is known in the country as "the stuffing," a thick mixture of sausage meat, bread crumbs and eggs, with just a faint touch of sage and onion. When prepared and placed in the huge oven to roast it becomes the duty of one cook to watch the oven and baste the roast until it is evident to the practiced eye of the heroine of many such conflicts that the turkey is ready to be served with fresh made cranberry sauce and a rich gravy, in which all the giblets have been stirred with some well-balanced chestnuts. Now, everything being ready, the family and guests (and there are sure to be guests in country at a country Thanksgiving dinner) troop into the long dining room, to find the repast not only ready, but served with all the pomp and state the feast deserves.

The turkey is placed before the host, while the roast loin of young pig graces the opposite end of the table, with the boiled ham in the center, flanked with mashed white and baked sweet potatoes, turnips and cauliflower, with boats of gravy and bowls of sauce within easy reach of all. "Now pass up your plates," is requested from each end of the table, and the oftener this repeated advice is followed the more the face of the good matron glows with satisfaction. The great pitchers of foaming cider pass along the board and the diner at a farm Thanksgiving feast finds it all so novel and good that the vision comes up before him frequently while struggling with a complicated menu at his club or some hotel or mincing through the series of problems presented at a French or Italian table d'hôte dinner.

On every Yankee warship in the hot lands of the far away Malay islands, Cuba, Guam, Panama, the Sandwich islands and under the flag that floats over every American consul's home or office Thanksgiving day will be celebrated, and, like another stitch in the great bed quilt of liberty and independence will knit the fabric closer together.

We do well to have a Thanksgiving feast. We thank the great Creator for our being, our sturdy forefathers for our great country, our Burly British ancestors for our love of country and good things to eat, our bustling energy for rapid progress, our wives and mothers for domestic atmosphere that makes life enjoyable and success certain and the rulers we have placed in power for unparalleled prosperity.

BETSY'S THANKSGIVING GUEST

By BLANCHE FANNER DILLIN

SHOULD think people would know enough to stay at home on Thanksgiving! Any one of sense would know families like to be alone one day in the year." Elizabeth threw down the letter she had been reading.

"Why, Elizabeth, what's this all about?" asked her husband.

"I suppose you won't think it is anything, but it just spoils our day together. We weren't going to have any one here tomorrow except the family, and now Gertrude Allison has written that she will be out in the afternoon."

"Here comes Don. Perhaps he can suggest a way out of your troubles," said her husband with evident relief.

"Hello, sis, what's the matter? You look as black as a thunder cloud. I see, had a quarrel with Tom, and the first year, too. You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Mr. Leonard."

"Don't be silly, Don," his sister pouted. "I suppose you will disagree with me just as Tom did. Here's a letter from Gertrude saying she will be here on Thanksgiving."

"Well, sister mine, may I ask the cause of your displeasure?"

"The cause! That's just like a man. Can't you see, either, that we want to be alone on that day?"

"Poor Betsy! Shall I telegraph, 'Only the family wanted. Others will please stay at home and—?'"

"Do stop your nonsense, Don. I suppose I am foolish, but I thought we'd have such a good time together," Elizabeth sighed.

About an hour before dinner time the telephone rang and was answered by Elizabeth.

"Hello! Who is it? O, Gertrude! Well, well, old girl, are you actually there? Glad? I guess I am. Just wait until I get you at arms' length. Coming out to dinner? Oh, that's lovely. And stay all night, can't you? Good! You needn't think I'll let you go tomorrow. You've got to give me a week at least. Won't we have a good time talking over old times? But you must stay. Don't be a minute late. Goodbye."

"Oh, for heaven's sake, what'll I do?" asked Elizabeth, as she hung up the receiver with a nervous bang and faced her husband.

"Where am I going to put her, I'd like to know. There's nothing to do but make Don give up his room and go to the hotel. And, oh—I'll have to clean that room at once! It's the worst looking place I ever saw."

Half an hour later as Don mounted the stairs he was surprised to find his special sanctum undergoing an unusual process.

"Impossible!" he exclaimed. "Don't you dare to come in here!" his sister commanded.

"Certainly not if you don't wish."

"Go down and tell Nora to put on an extra plate. Gertrude is coming to dinner," Elizabeth added in a tone that left no room for comments. And Don obeyed, speechless for once.

Dinner was ready, but there was no sign of Gertrude.

"Let's sit down and eat," suggested Don.

The bell rang. "There she is now, sis," said Don. "Go and give her a sister's welcome."

"I can't understand it," said Elizabeth.

beth, as she returned in a few minutes with an open letter in her hand. "Can't understand what?" she was asked.

"Why, here's a special delivery from Gertrude saying she will not be in the city until tomorrow. What does it mean? She just telephoned me an hour ago that she would be here to dinner."

Don threw up both hands and laughed.

"Ha! Ha! Betsy, Betsy! I'll bet on Betsy every time!" He threw himself on the lounge and smothered his face in the pillows.

"Stop rolling round that way and tell me what the matter is!" Elizabeth commanded.

"You're a great girl! But then women are all alike."

"Tell me this instant what you mean."

Don rose from the couch, and dropping upon one knee before the offending mistress of the house he said: "Sister, mine, forgive me if you can, but I couldn't resist the temptation."

"Get up! Get up, I say! Do you mean to tell me that you played that trick on me?"

"Betsy, you made such a fuss about Gertrude's coming that I thought I'd like to see how you would act if the lady herself should happen to announce such a mad possibility, so I went to the corner telephone—and found out!"

"Donald Warner, you are a mean thing—the meanest thing on earth!" His sister dropped into a chair and covered her face with her hands.

"Poor dear, it was a shame—a base trick!" Don admitted contritely as he patted her head and deferred to the faces of the smiling group. "But just think, sister, my room is cleaned," he whispered for her ear alone.

Couldn't Do It. "I can't stay long," said the chairman of the committee from the colored church. "I just came to see if you wouldn't join de mission band."

"Fo' de lan' sakes, honey," replied the old mammy, "doan' come to me! I can't even play a mouf-organ."—Lippincott's.

CHEERFUL WORDS FOR SUFFERING WOMEN.

No woman can be healthy with sick kidneys. They are often the true cause of bearing-down pains, headaches, dizziness, nervousness, etc. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Doan's Kidney Pills make strong, healthy kidneys.

Mrs. John A. Link, 122 East Perry St., Bucyrus, O., says: "I was so terribly afflicted with kidney complaint, I could not stir out of bed. I was attended by several doctors but they all failed to help me. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief after I had given up all hope and soon cured me. I have had no kidney trouble in three years."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

On the Senators.

The wit of Bishop Seth Ward amuses Nashville frequently. Bishop Ward, in company with two senators, came forth from a Nashville reception the other day and entered a waiting motor car.

"Ah, bishop," said one of his companions, "you are not like your master. He was content to ride an ass." Ward answered, "but there's no such animal to be got nowadays. They make them all senators."

Trying to Console.

"My son," remarked the stern parent, "when I was your age I had very little time for frivolous diversions."

"Well," replied the young man, "you didn't miss much. Believe me, this gay life isn't what it looks to be."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Made Him Ridiculous.

Joseph Letter, in an interview on his yacht Chantecler, said, with a smile:

"Please quote me accurately. In an interview, you know, the slightest inaccuracy can make a man ridiculous. It is like the Frenchman, who thought he had a very fair knowledge of English, nevertheless, said to a father: 'Aha! You son, he resemble you. A chip off the old blockhead, hein?'"

DISCOURAGEMENTS OF LITERATURE.

Mrs. Quiz—Has your husband ever been accused of plagiarism?

Mrs. Spacer—No; and it discourages him, too. It shows he has never written anything that's so good other people would like to claim it.

AN EFFECTIVE HOME MADE KIDNEY AND BACKACHE CURE

Easily Prepared Medicine Which is Said to Regulate the Kidneys and End Backache.

To make up enough of the "Dandelion Mixture" which is claimed to be a prompt cure for Backache and Kidney and Bladder trouble, get from any good Prescription Pharmacist one-half ounce fluid extract Dandelion; one ounce Kargon Compound and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it say it acts gently but thoroughly on the Kidneys and entire urinary system, relieving the most severe Backache at once.

A well-known medical authority recommends the prescription to be taken the moment you suspect any Kidney, Bladder or Urinary disorder or feel a constant dull Backache, or if the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation; or for too frequent urination during the night.

This is a real harmless vegetable mixture which could not cause injury to anyone and the relief which is said to immediately follow its use is a revelation to men and women who suffer from Backache, Kidney trouble or any form of Urinary disorder.

This is surely worth trying, as it is easily mixed at home or any druggist will do it for you, and doesn't cost much.

THEIR HOUSE PLANS

"Well, Uncle Jim has built quite a mansion, hasn't he?" said Knowles, as he and his young wife walked away from the new home of their prosperous relative. "I wish, Maud, there was some hope of my ever building you a house like that."

"It's nice of you to think of it, Arthur, but if we were erecting a house I shouldn't want it to be exactly like your Uncle Jim's."

"You wouldn't? Why not?" asked Knowles, who felt a good deal of family pride in his uncle's new dwelling. "You seemed to admire everything when Uncle Jim was showing us through it."

"Well, I did like almost everything, but I couldn't stand those stairs, going right up between two walls the way they do."

"Why, I thought that was very neat. If I were building I should certainly wish to copy that feature."

"I suppose, Arthur," said Maud, frigidly, "that if you were building you would consult my taste to some extent at least?"

"Yes, of course, dear. But I'm sure you'd like those stairs after you got used to them. You see, there's no room wasted. That's what I like about Uncle Jim's house—every inch of space counts."

"I never should like those stairs. I dislike anything that looks the least cramped or contracted in a house. I shall want broad stairs, with a spacious landing and polished mahogany rail coming down into a wide and lofty hall."

"And I suppose you'll want me to put on a swallow-tail coat every night for a seven o'clock dinner. Well, my dear girl, I'll tell you now that there'll be nothing doing in full dress for yours truly, and that I never want my dinner a minute later than 6:30. Just time enough to wash up a bit when I get home from the office before I sit down to a square meal is all I want. No frills for little Arthur, thank you."

"I should think you'd like to dress like a gentleman and dine at a correct hour," said Maud in a hurt tone. "Well, who's to say that a man can't be a gentleman in a business suit? And as to dining at the correct hour, I think the correct hour is when one is hungry and dinner is ready. I tell you, Mr. A., people get just as unbalanced over good food as they do over any other craze."

"Do you mean to imply, Arthur, that I am unbalanced?"

"Why, no, of course not. Let's see, we were talking about Uncle Jim's house. You certainly must admit that the dining room and kitchen are large enough. There's nothing cramped about those rooms."

"The kitchen is entirely too big. Some of it should have been partitioned off into a butler's pantry. Fancy having as elegant a house as that with no butler's pantry!"

"Well, there's no butler, either. I suppose Uncle Jim could not see why he should provide an apartment for an unknown quantity. I think having the kitchen and dining room adjoin is a very good arrangement. You're sure to get your food hot then. If there's anything I hate it is lukewarm meals."

"Men never think of anything but what they have to eat."

"I suppose if we were only as ethereal as women we could all live on chocolates and afternoon tea and it wouldn't be necessary to build kitchens and dining rooms."

"How silly you are, Arthur! Really, you are the most unreasonable person to argue with I ever knew."

"Then why argue with me?"

"You began the argument yourself by insisting upon having stairs like Uncle Jim's in our house; and I don't think it a bit nice of you to plan something that you know I don't like."

Knowles glanced quizzically at his wife's girlish profile, for she had turned her face away from him. Then he slipped his arm through hers and said: "There, now, Maud, don't you care. I'll throw those plans of mine away and you can make all the next set for our—our dream house."

"You are silly, Arthur—a silly old dear," Maud laughed a little tremulously as she spoke.

Weighing a Ship's Cargo.

An ingenious new invention for weighing a ship's cargo is that known as the porhydrometer. It was devised by Signor Emilia de Doreni, an Italian engineer, and the results it records are said to be accurate within 1-1,000th per cent. It works on the well-known Archimedeian principle that a floating body displaces its own weight of water. The apparatus consists of a float or aerometer, cylindrical in form; this is placed in a chamber of the vessel which communicates with the water outside. As the ship is loaded and sinks, so the water rises in the chamber. The float being fixed, a larger portion becomes immersed in the water, and its apparent weight lessened. By a simple arrangement of levers this apparent loss of weight of the float is registered, and the weight of the cargo is thus indicated.

Rough on Him.

Sapleigh—I've just bought a blank book to write my thoughts in. Miss Keen—You've certainly selected the right sort of book. Mr. Sapleigh.

Ballade of Harvest Home

Fields are barren and woods are brown Southward turns the wild birds' flight Winter is coming with roar and frown Spreading his mantle gleaming white But at the father's hearth unite The old and young from far and near To greet with laughter and delight The Harvest Home of all the year.

Forgot the weight of labor's crown, To pleasure now the hours invite; The merry shouts of children drown Their elders' talk of "business" frite; With smiles is every face bedight, Ring out the voices sweet and clear— Each maid's a queen, each lad's a knight This Harvest Home of all the year.

Not wealth nor place nor cut of gown, 'Tis work well done sets hearts alight; Alike to those of farm and town Shines Home's fair beacon feodally bright; Far float youth's songs across the night— Now let the crisp winds roar and veer, Strong doors shut out the storm king's might This Harvest Home of all the year.

ENVOI

Prince, grant that when our youth takes flight And Age's sure message doth appear Heaped high, Love's store shall joy invite— That Harvest Home of Life's round year.

WITHIN OUR OWN HEARTS

Annual Season of Praise and Prayer Belongs to Each of Us For Ourselves.

The president and the governors of states appoint Thanksgiving day; but each person makes it for himself. It cannot be made in haste. The choicest things of the year must be gathered together in thought and put into it. First are the permanent treasures of life. God is, and is our Father. We have his word and his spirit. We are in his family, not as servants but as sons, and "the son abideth forever." We have, therefore, a future unbounded by time in the father's house. These everlasting values enrich present life beyond limit. The day when men's attention is concentrated on them becomes Thanksgiving day.

We put into it also what the years have given us—family affections and friendships. Ties suspended by circumstances, not broken, are renewed, as faces of the absent ones reappear in the home.

The blessings of this year must be put into Thanksgiving day. The work that was planned when the winter's shortest days began to lengthen is done. The harvest is completed. We do not count the losses today. We put the disappointments and sorrows out of sight for the present. We are not making a fast but a feast. The tables are loaded with good things, which symbolize the good things of the year and of all the years and of the eternal life. And how many of them are here with us—the husband, the wife, the children, rather and mother, friends at hand and messages from those afar, the home and all it contains. We have a Christian fellowship, a great and prosperous country at peace with the world and with a helpful mission to other nations which is being nobly fulfilled.

But something still is lacking. It is the flavor to the food, the piquancy to the appetite, the flowers to adorn the table. What we give gives value to what we have. "God setteth the solitary in families." If there is a chair vacant at our table some lonely one must be found to fill it. While there are homes unprovided, ours cannot be completely ready for the festival. "Send portions unto him for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto our Lord." That our table is adorned and its plainest food made rich.

Now the day is made. We unite in thanksgiving and we share the feast in a happy fellowship surrounded by an uncounted multitude of merry making homes, whose unspoken greeting to one another explains the meaning of our national Thanksgiving day. "For the joy of the Lord is your strength."

Mystery of the Violets

There are three daughters in the Jerviss family, all attractive young women of a going-out age.

Emily, the eldest, is a tall, dashing brunette. Eleanor, the second, is petite and dark. Daisy, the debutante, is a short blond young person with freckles and the engaging manners of a cherubic small boy. It is a standing grievance among this otherwise care-free trio that their various admirers often fail to attach a distinguishing first name to their offerings and notes.

"It was all very well," Daisy sputtered wrathfully to a girl caller, "to contend that Emily is the only Miss Jerviss. To be sure, Emily could, properly and technically speaking, claim the honor of that title, but when it comes to claiming every box of candy that reaches the house thus addressed it is quite another matter."

"It's horribly embarrassing," she complained, "for us not to know which one of us has to thank the man whose card accompanies the gift, because we all three go out with the same men occasionally, and it's hard to know which one he desires to favor."

"This time," she added, with a giggle, "is the worst yet!" She uncovered a square purple box and displayed to her girl caller a great bunch of violets. She buried her nose in them ecstatically.

"They are absolutely the first of the season," she said, "and they came two hours ago addressed to Miss Jerviss' and without a trace of a card. Of course, we all three claim them, because Eleanor is going to the theater with Billy Seltermann tonight and Emily is going to a little informal dance with Henry Corsairs and I myself am expecting Livingston Orr to call. A mere call doesn't necessitate flowers, naturally, but Livingston has been rather—er—devoted of late. And every man harbors the conviction that the recipient of his favors is going to know whom to thank by some subtle romantic instinct."

"No, indeed," she went on, in answer to a question from the caller, "we haven't come to any decision yet. We had a council and after much discussion we decided to be foxy, so each one of us invented good excuses to call up the man she is going out with this evening to see if he wouldn't get into a conversation and give himself away."

"Emily called Henry to say that she couldn't possibly be ready until half an hour later than the time he was to come, but he only thanked her gratefully for letting him know, and she had to hang up the receiver without enlightenment."

"Then Eleanor called up Billy to remind him that she didn't know what play they were going to see. She told him that she wanted to look up the criticisms beforehand. Equally hopeless!"

"And so I rang up Livingston to ask him to stop off on his way here tonight and bring me a certain book from the Kays'. He agreed pleasantly and remarked that he had been thinking about me all day."

"Ah ha!" said I to myself. 'Here is where little Daisy corners the violet market.' Then, 'How am I going to be convinced of that?' I inquired archly of Livingston, thinking he would speak of his floral offering as a proof. But he only remonstrated, in a hurt voice, that he hoped I wouldn't need any convincing argument on that score. So I hung up the receiver baffled. What he said didn't sound promising, although, of course, he may have sent the violets and will not mention them until I do."

She returned the bouquet to its box with a sigh. "Emily will probably get them after all," she said, ruefully, "because she has the legal claim. Then if they really did come from Nell's young man or mine he will be mortally offended when he notices that we haven't worn them."

"But, you see—" She was interrupted by the entrance of the housemaid with a card.

"There's a boy just come, Miss Daisy," said the maid, "to say that the box from the florist's that was delivered this afternoon was addressed wrong. He says it was for Mrs. Jerviss instead of Miss Jerviss, and here's the card that was to go with it."

Daisy accepted the card with a blank face. But as she read a broad grin grew upon her countenance. "They are from Uncle Jack," she said. "He always sends mother flowers when he passes through town."

The grin developed into a laugh. "The joke is on Emily," gasped Daisy after an interval, "for she has gone five miles to the dressmaker's to hurry up her new lavender gown so that she can wear it with those violets to-night!"

Preserving Autumn Leaves.

A lady writes that she has preserved autumn leaves in the following manner: Take a book with rather a heavy cover when you go to gather the leaves and place them in it smoothly. The next day or so give them a coat of varnish such as is used for photographs. I have made very pretty centerpieces by cutting a piece of cardboard any shape desired and arranging the leaves as a lace or embroidered centerpiece. For a pretty dish for the middle I cut off carrots about an inch and a half in length and put them in a pretty glass dish with a little water and a few pieces of charcoal. They grow and look like ferns.

BABY'S GIFT FROM HIS PAPA

Inheritance for Which Mother Did Not Seem to Be in Any Great Degree Thankful.

Richard Harding Davis, at a football game in Philadelphia, praised the voices of the young undergraduates shouting their weird college yells.

"It makes me think of a Locust street wife," said Mr. Davis, smiling. "She turned to her husband one night at dinner and remarked:

"My dear, the first time I saw you was at Franklin Field. Your head was thrown back, your mouth wide open and your face was very red—you were yelling your college yell."

"Yes, I remember," said the young man.

"And I noticed," she continued, "what a remarkable voice you had."

"Yes, you spoke of it at the time," said he. "But what makes you think of it now?"

"Oh, nothing," said the wife. "Only I wish the baby hadn't inherited it. That's all."

"I don't know, I was sitting on the back seat and couldn't see," was the ready answer.—From Norman E. Mack's National Monthly.

Don't Use a Scarecrow

To Drive Away the Mail Order Wolf

You can drive him out quickly if you use the mail order houses' own weapon—advertising. Mail order concerns are spending thousands of dollars every week in order to get trade from the home merchants. Do you think for a minute they would keep it up if they didn't get the business? Don't take it for granted that every one within a radius of 25 miles knows what you have to sell, and what your prices are. Nine times out of ten your prices are lower, but the customer is influenced by the up-to-date advertising of the mail order house. Every article you advertise should be described and priced. You must tell your story in an interesting way, and when you want to reach the buyers of this community use the columns of this paper.

You Don't Need a Town Crier

to emphasize the merits of your business or announce your special sales. A straight story told in a straight way to the readers of this paper will quickly reach the ears of the thoughtful, intelligent buying public, the people who have the money in their pockets, and the people who listen to reason and not noise. Our books will show you a list of the kind of people you appeal to. Call and see them at this office.

MILITANT SUFFRAGETTES WILL WIN

LONDON, November 22d—Premier Asquith has yielded to the importunities of the suffragettes, and in the House of Commons today announced that, if he was still in power at the next session of Parliament, the Government would give facilities for the consideration of a woman's franchise bill so framed as to admit of free amendment.

GENERAL WILLIAM L. MARSHALL

General William L. Marshall of Washington City is due to arrive here today on a visit with his sister, Miss Fanny Marshall, at Washington, Ky. General Marshall has a highly checked career. He was appointed to West Point by General Grant, and graduated with high honors. He was assigned to the Engineer Corps of the Army and did a great deal of scientific service for the country. As an Engineer on the Mississippi river, he held down that wandering stream for many years. He was also employed by the Government in doing valuable service in the far West. One of his well known exploits was the discovery and the opening of Marshall Pass, which was named after the explorer. He added greatly to his fame as an Engineer by his work in New York harbor, on which he was engaged for several years. He is now located in Washington City in one of the important departments of the Government. He is a son of the late Colonel Charles A. Marshall, who, during the Civil War, was Colonel of the Sixteenth Kentucky Infantry, and did valuable service during the early part of the War with General Nelson. General Marshall will be warmly welcomed by his old friends, few of whom are left, and by all who are familiar with his brilliant career, especially as Chief of Engineers, U. S. A.

JUST IN NICK OF TIME

Mr. Thomas Gilbert, accompanied by pretty thirteen-year-old Aileen Alexander of Stout, Ohio, arrived in the city last evening for the purpose of becoming man and wife. After securing the proper papers,—by misrepresentation of facts—from Deputy County Clerk Owens, and when Rev. B. F. Chatham of the First M. E. Church, South, was about to have the couple join hands that the ceremony might proceed, in steps one of Chief Ort's blue coats, and declares the match off, as he held authority from the father to take the young lady in his charge, which he did, and placed her in keeping at the Central Hotel to await the coming of her father, who arrived here this morning and will return with his daughter this afternoon to their home in Ohio. It was a sad ending to love's young dream, and a heart-breaking disappointment to the youthful couple.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

EMBROIDERIES

Women are fast realizing the economy of buying better grade embroideries instead of the cheap showy article which does not give satisfactory service. The new embroideries we are showing are carefully stitched on hand looms by intelligent workmen who have generations of skillful training to guide them. The line embodies many reproductions of hand work. Special values in match edges and insertions at 15c, 25c yard.

MAYSVILLE, KENTUCKY

The sky man is the man of the century.

Aviation is, after all less dangerous than football.

The freak hat is doomed, we are told. Ah, but which freak hat?

Don't keep your mouth open when looking at airships. It is a bad habit.

Ballooning is somewhat like tobogganing, but the walk back is more fatiguing.

It is just as fatal to be killed in a football game as in an aeroplane catastrophe.

Perhaps the hobble skirt is the cause for the new fashion of large pedal extremities.

The man-bird should not attempt at this stage of the game too many shines in the air.

When a man lives in a boarding house he lets somebody else worry about the price of coal.

Aerial wonders top one another until the general public is beginning to be surprised by nothing.

According to reports, the government will soon have to set aside reservations to prevent the Yankees from becoming extinct.

The Chinese may adopt a compromise. When they stop pinching the feet of their girls they may put on them hobble skirts.

A German banker spent eight months in America and did not marry. He is rich, so there must be some other reason.

Dunning by postal card has been forbidden by the post office department. Hereafter the dunnings must use two-cent stamps.

A Russian military balloon went up over 20,000 feet the other day. That is enough to get out of range of any ordinary Japanese fleet.

We have grown as a people this year 5,275,000,000 bushels of corn, oats, wheat, barley and potatoes, and no one should go hungry.

One woman of the "400" paid $11,000 in duties on her gowns recently. The "400" has ceased to practise smuggling except at odd times.

Everything seems to indicate that it will be several years yet before the science of aviation can be considered entirely out of its infancy.

One of Yale's professors is afraid America is soon to become a monarchy. He probably has nothing else at this time to be afraid of.

A trick horse that had been stolen shook hands with the rightful owner, to the undoing of the thief. We defy a trick automobile to do that.

The prune supply at a New York hospital was short and boarding house guests will be surprised to hear there is quite a fuss about it.

The police have discovered a man leaning against a corner building who had been dead three hours. "All things come to him who waits."

As to the consequences, there does not seem to be much to choose between a woman automobilist turning thief and her machine turning turtle.

People hooted at a woman in Columbus, Ga., because she wore a hobble skirt in the streets. Can it be possible that the age of southern chivalry is past?

Six billion cigarettes were consumed in the United States last year; yet there are in this country a good many young men whose fingers are not stained.

In Cranford, N. J., a thief stole a $100 gold watch from the pocket of a police sergeant while that official dozed in the police station. What that policeman needs is a chaperon.

The life of the city boy is indeed hard. No more Fourth of July, no more hallowe'en and an increase in the number of vacation schools is only matched by a condemnation of moving picture shows.

Aviation is becoming extremely profitable—if not for the country, certainly for the aviators. But the cash inducements to risk life and limb cause the science of airship building to get a move on.

Wireless lighting is now announced by a Danish inventor. Nature's lighting has always been wireless, and here mere man only imitates.

In St. Louis there is a robber who is known as "the candy kid." He probably got the name owing to his possession of sticky fingers.

A western scientist claims to have discovered a chemical which is death and destruction to germs. Is this century approaching the climax of a diseaseless world?

Divine Ideal

Humanity Making Progress to Some Great End

By REV. R. F. CAMPBELL

IN THE LAST two chapters of Revelation we are assured that the material world will, when the time is ripe, be absorbed and transformed by the spiritual. The primitive Christians expected this consummation too soon, but they were always thinking about it, and believed that the dead were also waiting for it in a state of probation, or a sleep, as St. Paul calls it, and that all the redeemed would enter upon it together.

Surely they were right. Humanity is progressing towards some great end, an end higher than the perfecting of separate individualities. One generation goes on where another leaves off, and unfolds the divine ideas a little more fully. Some day we may hope, this idea will be realized in a human society as nearly perfect as the limitations of earth permit. We may reasonably hold that those generations which have passed on have not stood still either, and are still concerned with the work of evolving humanity, a mighty whole, one with and in the glorified Christ.

"Then cometh the end." All illusions, all sense of separateness, will disappear; the material will make way for the spiritual, the phenomenal for the real, and the universe of universes, visible and invisible, attain to perfect conscious oneness in the eternal life of God. This is the New Testament view of the matter seen in the large perspective of our present day knowledge of the vastness of the universal order.

When we come to the question of the survival of individual consciousness after death we can say no more than that the evidence which would satisfy the ordinary religious mind might fail with the uninformed by the religious temperament. Nevertheless the lack may be in the latter rather than in the former.

Evidence that would carry conviction by the methods acceptable to the scientific mind would, of course, have to be on the lower plane. I quite admit that such evidence might be of great value as a reinforcement to spirituality, but it could never be a substitute for it. Still I think it not improbable that scientific psychic investigation will before long manage to prove to the satisfaction of the average man the existence of discarnate consciousness. If so, I shall rejoice, because I believe the general effect of such a demonstration would be good. But even so, I would rather rely on the instinctive perceptions of the highest order of spiritual experience.

Death is no calamity to those whom it calls higher, but only to those who mourn their loss. And even that would be turned into joy if we could but know how things really are in the great beyond.

Evils of Cheap Match Materials

By FLORENCE A. BRIGHT

The use of white phosphorus in our match factories in America is greatly to be deplored. It has been prohibited in England and other countries, because of the fearful and most painful disease of the jaws which it often produces among the matchmakers.

White phosphorus is a cheaper kind of phosphorus and consequently has been much used. The manufacturers are ready to give it up, but as competition is keen they say that the use of it must be prohibited in all the factories.

Efforts have been made to pass a law forbidding the use of white phosphorus, but it is feared that bribery has prevented, so far, the desired end being obtained.

Will not the women who are housekeepers help to hasten the discontinuance of this evil?

Shall we not try in this very small way to make it easier and less dangerous for the women and little children?

I commend them to your mercy.

Pistol Toting in China and Japan

By M. P. GRANDIN

At the risk of being thought disloyal to native land, with its claim to a superior civilization and its similar manifestations of national egotism, I venture to call attention to the fact that both China and Japan have very much more sensible laws governing ownership and use of firearms than we have. The "heathen in their blindness" carefully govern the matter of registration of sales and the responsibility of vendors for such results as follow from illegal use of firearms.

The truth of the matter, of course, is that we are still living, in some sections of the country, under the ideals of the feudal age of society, when weapons were part of the apparel of all males and when personal difficulties were settled by resort to arms, and, broadly speaking, the national disinclination to interfere with a right that once was inalienable in order to enable individuals to protect themselves from the tyranny of those above them, is a survival, which ignores altered social conditions and the existence of social methods of securing justice.

Let anyone take notice when out in a crowd and see the number of aigrette plumes displayed on women's hats. Any member of the Audubon society or believer in its teachings will find it necessary to order "no feathers" at any millinery store, for almost all hats bear this kind of trimming in some form or other.

Women are not losing their femininity, but in the mad rush for fashions are becoming thoughtless. Many, perhaps, do not know how much the mother heron suffers when shorn of her beautiful plumage; that it means the death of herself and brood of little ones. Let us as women welcome information on such subjects and exercise the tender, gentle qualities with which we were endowed by refusing to wear the breasts and plumage of herons, beautiful song birds and the like.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

American Gibraltar in Manila Bay

WASHINGTON.—About two years hence if passengers on steamers entering Manila harbor and passing between the several small islands that guard the principal port of the Philippines should inquire with indifferent interest as to the name and use of a small dun-colored rock, hardly discernible any distance away and looking much like an irregular shaped houseboat floating on the ocean, they will be told that they are looking at El Fraile Island. Perhaps, also, they will be told that the little island, scarce two hundred feet square, is the most diabolically effective fortification of its size in the world.

For eighteen months army engineers have been directing the work of fortifying what is intended as the backbone or keystone of the strong defenses in Manila harbor. They have resorted to a plan suggested by a young engineer officer after their superiors had thrown up their hands in despair at the prospects of attempting to fortify the rock which showed its head above the water for so small an area. It involves the leveling of the island almost to the surface of the sea and erecting a structure in the form of a battleship deck stripped for action. The artificial fortifying will be of steel and cement.

The defenses of Manila bay entrance present the most picturesque as well as the most complete set of fortifications Uncle Sam possesses. Stretching across the mouth of the harbor are a series of islands. The largest of these islands and the one which will be used as a base of supplies for the others is Corregidor, from which the first hostile gun was directed against Admiral Dewey's fleet in 1898. On Corregidor the army is installing a 24 company post. Warehouses of a capacity to contain supplies for a whole year for 20,000 men have been built. This island is considered impregnable from the sea side.

But the most interesting of all the islands is the El Fraile, at present a tiny rock rising in a pinnacle 180 feet above the bay. The shape of the island will, as stated, be changed by means of steel and concrete walls which will extend below the water line, to resemble the hull of a battleship. No section of the island ground will be exposed to fire. It will be surrounded and covered over by steel and concrete walls, about fifty feet thick on the sides and almost solid steel on the top. On the surface of this "deck" two turrets will be placed, each turret containing two 14-inch guns. Besides the four large guns, four six-inch rapid-fire rifles will be placed in embrasures at the seaward end, and like batteries of small guns will be placed at other points of advantage. Quarters will be provided for only a sufficient number of men to work the guns and machinery. The cost of this powerful little fortress, the most dangerous fort of its size on earth, will be $3,000,000, guns, walls, turrets and all.

Treasury Building Is Overcrowded

WHEN the small army of architects and artisans has finished the work now in progress on the United States treasury building, the beautiful old structure will show the first material change since 1869. Architecturally it still will represent a pagan temple, indicating, many folk say, the American people's worship of money. But visitors to the nation's capital who have not seen the treasury in 40 years will find some changes for efficiency and economy.

The nucleus of the present building, located where President Jackson, irritated by the procrastination of congress in choosing a site, put his hickory stick down with a thump and exclaimed, "Put 'er there, on that spot," will remain unchanged, but the double-stone staircase leading up to the colonnade on the Fifteenth street side has been torn away. Architects said it spoiled the beauty of that side of the building, plans for which were drawn by William T. Elliott, a surveyor, who came to Washington in 1813.

The 30 granite monoliths, each of which cost $5,500 and weighs 30 tons, now stand in an unbroken row. They are said to be the finest example of their kind of the stonemason's art. It required ten men, working 60 days, to produce each of them, and a solid train of 30 flat cars brought them to Washington from the quarries in Massachusetts.

To make more space inside the building all the files of letters and documents will be stored in the old coal vaults under the lawn on the Pennsylvania avenue side, and new coal vaults are being built on the side opposite the White House.

The completed building, as it stands, represents three stages of construction. The nucleus, located by Jackson, was finished in 1842. The south wing was finished in 1864. The north wing, finished in 1869, is on the side of the old state department building.

The long colonnade of brown stone, erected in 1864, deteriorated in the southern climate and was replaced by the present granite monoliths a little more than a year ago.

Big Job to Fill the Supreme Bench

THE seven justices of the Supreme court of the United States, led by the venerable Justice Harlan, called on President Taft the other day to pay their respects. This annual call of courtesy reminded the president of a duty which is uppermost in his mind and occupying it almost to the exclusion of any other consideration, for the president is called upon to remodel the highest tribunal in the land.

The president has appointed two justices already—Hughes in place of Brewer, who died, and Lurton in place of Peckham of New York, also dead. These deaths removed a Republican and a Democrat, and their successors were of the same political faith. Since then Chief Justice Fuller, a Democrat, appointed from Illinois, has died, and Justice Moody, a Republican, of Massachusetts, has resigned because of ill-health, and President Taft will have to fill these two vacancies.

In addition to judicial fitness, politics and geographical qualifications must be considered. Moreover, the president is brought face to face with a task which will be of tremendous importance to the United States for the next generation. With political beliefs changing over night and greater zeal in governmental supervision being urged by the dominant party, the court which President Taft must reconstruct will pass on all the changes in the organic laws of the United States which may be made by congress.

The problem will not be solved for the public until after congress meets, as it has been definitely announced at the White House that no judicial appointments would be sent to the senate until the Monday following the reconvening of congress.

Society Soldier Out at Fort Myer

ALBERT J. MYER, the American army's gentleman soldier, is no longer wearing the uniform of an enlisted man. He has left Fort Myer, the army reservation named for his illustrious grandfather, and has gone back to Boston.

Not only was the passing of the dandy soldier sudden and unexpected, but the manner of his going sensational. Mr. Myer, who was a corporal in the signal corps, has been in the guardhouse since August. A recent verdict of a court-martial which tried him sentenced Corporal Myer to be reduced to the ranks, to be confined at hard labor for three months and to forfeit $50 of his pay.

The court-martial was a little slow and Myer escaped its imprisonment penalty, having been discharged in the meantime. He was given an honorable discharge and the army knows him no more.

Myer created the biggest sensation the army has had for a long time. He tried to get into West Point, but was barred by age, and from the naval academy because of his size. Then he enlisted in the cavalry, but that did not suit his liking and he transferred into the signal corps, where he was promoted to be a corporal.

At Fort Myer the dandy soldier was the envy of his comrades and a particular bore to his officers. After a hard day's drill, or the attendance on some other military duty, Corporal Myer would go to his bachelor apartments, have his valet rub him down and then don the habiliments of a society man. That night, perhaps, his commanding officers would find him in the same ballroom with themselves.

The youngster rode and walked with the fairest of Washington's belles, and had money to burn. He never did anything to excite the anger of his superiors except to play the dual role of a soldier and a dandy, too.

"Lame Leg Well"

"I wish to say that I have used Sloan's Liniment on a lame leg that has given me much trouble for six months. It was so bad that I couldn't walk sometimes for a week. I tried doctors' medicine and had a rubber bandage for my leg, and bought everything that I heard of, but they all did me no good, until at last I was persuaded to try Sloan's Liniment. The first application helped it, and in two weeks my leg was well."—A. L. HUNTER, of Hunter, Ala.

UNCLE CALHOUN SPOKE OUT

Answer No Doubt Truthful, but by No Means What the Orator Desired.

Booker T. Washington, congratulated by a New York reporter on the success he has made of his life, said with a smile:

"I suppose I must be modest and declare that luck has had much to do with my progress, or otherwise I'll be in Senator Dash's shoes."

"Senator Dash of Tallapoosa prided himself on his rise from the bottom, for Senator Dash in his youth had cotton fields."

"Boasting at a political meeting about his rise, the senator singled out Uncle Calhoun Webster among his audience and said:

"I see before me old Calhoun Webster, beside whom, in the broiling southern sun, I tolled day after day. Now, ladies and gentlemen, I appeal to Uncle Calhoun. Tell us all, uncle, was I, or was I not, a good man in the cotton field?"

"Yo' wuz a good man, senatab," the aged negro replied; "yo' wuz a good man, fo' a fack; but yo' sutny didn't work much."

Seven-year-old William had become the proud owner of a pet pig, and insisted upon having all the care of it himself. After a few weeks, as the pig did not seem to thrive, his father said to him:

"William, I'm afraid you are not feeding your pig enough. It does not seem to be fattening at all."

"I don't want him to fatten yet," William replied, knowingly. "I'm waiting until he gets to be as long as I want him, then I'll begin to widen him out."—Tit-Bits.

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

Forging the Big Panama Canal Gates

PITTSBURG, PA.—Mischievous boys dreaming of gates to be carried away and future Hallowe'en trophies would not in the wildest nightmares imagine such enormous gates as are being made in Pittsburgh for the Panama canal.

They will be the largest gates in the world. Any one of the 92 of them will be about as high as a six-story building, as wide as many city buildings are (65 feet), and seven feet deep or thick.

The structural steel that will go to make them will weigh 66,000 tons, or more than eight times as much as was used to build the Eiffel tower in Paris.

The mighty portals, designed to admit a world's commerce from one ocean to another, must withstand a tide of criticism as well as a tremendous pressure of water and possible convulsions of earth. For years the controversy over gates or no gates, locks or sea level, has been the dividing issue of the canal problem.

In the face of fear in some quarters that the foundations on the isthmus are not sure enough for locks, that earthquakes or water pressure would dislodge them, and that an enemy's mines or accidental explosion might easily destroy them, the government has begun to build the gates. The cost will be $5,500,000.

Of the 60,000 tons of steel required, the heaviest single pieces will weigh about eighteen tons. The thousands of individual pieces, numbered and fitted to go together as easily as children's blocks, will be shipped by steamer via Baltimore and with them will go more than four hundred skilled structural steel builders from Pittsburgh to set them. The advance guard of experts will leave here in December and the first work probably will begin early in 1911.

The location of the 46 pairs of gates will be, 20 at the Gatun dam on the Pacific side, 12 at Pedro Miguel, and 14 at Miraflores, near the Atlantic entrance. The gates are designed to hold back water 47.4 feet deep in a channel 110 feet wide, which means a pressure of a million pounds. The weight of a single gate will be about 600 tons, and the dimensions are 77 to 82 feet high, 60 to 75 feet wide and 7 feet thick.

Each lock will be ample for a ship 50 per cent. larger than any vessel afloat, and it has been estimated that as many as a hundred ocean ships may be handled in a single day.

There are no locks approaching these in size. The famous Suez canal is a sea level affair and the few great lock canals would have to combine their gates to equal the size and strength of the great doors of Panama.

Tragic Fate Long Pursues a Family

NEW YORK.—Another is likely to be added to the list of tragic deaths in the family of Miss Adelaide Cumming of this city. She is now in Boston, summoned there by a peculiar accident to her sister who, on her thirty-second birthday put on a new dress of the hobble-skirt variety, and as she was going downstairs, tripped and fell. Her hip bone was broken and various complications have set in which may cause her death.

Miss Cumming is still a young woman, but misfortune has been with her all her life. Her grandfather was wrecked and drowned at sea; her father killed in a boiler explosion; one sister crushed by a trunk, another killed by a snowball and a third by gangrene; a nephew went down in the Maine, another was killed in the San Francisco earthquake, and their mother is now insane.

James G. Cumming, grandfather of the present Cumming generation, was a sailor of Salem, Mass., and went down with his ship when Miss Cumming was a young girl. Her father was blown to death in a boiler explosion in Salem. He was a merchant and simply happened along when the boiler let loose. Only parts of his body were recovered. One sister was breaking wood over her knee when she fractured her kneecap. The leg was amputated but gangrene caused her death. Another was killed by a snowball in which a stone was imbedded and a third was caught while packing a trunk. The lid crushed her head.

The unhappy fate of the family seemed to descend to the branches, for one of Miss Cumming's nephews was lost in the San Francisco earthquake in one of the collapsed buildings which took fire. A brother of this lad, Ensign Matthews, had perished on the Maine in Havana harbor. These tragedies so preyed on the mind of the mother, Miss Cumming's sister, that she became violently insane and is now in a Massachusetts asylum. Now the last near relative of Miss Cumming is in a hospital, and it is impossible to say whether she will escape the family fate or not.

Everybody Helps to Make City Clean

KANSAS CITY, KAN.—The Armourdale district has set the pace and now this city is going to be a spotless town. An idea, a circular letter and a few postage stamps did the work in Armourdale.

Mr. Dean, commissioner of parks, selected the town-cleaning day and then mailed the letters to all of the business and professional men in that part of town, inviting them to meet, properly equipped with implements, at Shawnee park.

As early as 7:30 the Shawnee park district looked like a brickyard district when a mad-dog alarm has been sounded. There were men of all sizes and wearing all sorts of working apparel and carrying many descriptions of implements. When all hands had gathered around the bandstand, it was found that the group included lawyers, doctors, ministers and business men, and that they meant business.

The party was divided into three sections. Wagons furnished by the city and by business firms were on hand to follow the workers and collect the results of their labor.

Up one side of the street and down the other they worked, cleaning the street and parkings of weeds and papers and piling them for the wagons to collect and cart away. And school boys who had not been detained at home to clean yards followed the shovel and hoe brigade with brooms, sweeping up the dirt the shovellers had missed.

And the women were working, too. While their husbands were cleaning the streets, they were sweeping the yards, picking up tin cans and papers and cutting the dead weeds. In all parts of the city women could be seen, raking up leaves and trash and even repairing fences. The churches had men working cleaning and repairing the property and the school janitors were busy in the schoolhouse yards.

It is the intention before long to have the 14,000 school children of the city organized into juvenile leagues for the purpose of assisting in this work.

"This is only a starter," Mr. Dean explained. "All of Kansas City, Kan., will be cleaned the same way."

Refusal of Water May Cost His Life

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Lying in the Garretson hospital in a critical condition from a badly lacerated scalp, which he sustained when hit by a street car, Albert Maxwell, fifty-one years of age, steadfastly refuses to drink water in any form because he doesn't like it. He declares he has been a total abstainer from nature's beverage for the last thirty years, and is willing to take a chance of giving up his life rather than touch water again.

When Maxwell was taken to the hospital he was placed on the operating table while the physicians sewed up his scalp, which had been almost completely torn off the skull. Maxwell stood the operation well. As he straightened up ready to be assigned a bed Doctors Ross and Silk offered him a glass of water.

"I never use it," was Maxwell's response to the proffered drink. The physicians and the nurses regarded the statement as a joke. Next morning the nurse offered Maxwell medicine in the form of pills. A glass of water was offered him to take with the medicine, but Maxwell refused it. He swallowed the pills without water.

The white of an egg was prescribed in the evening, but after inspecting the food Maxwell declared he thought there was water in it and refused to take it.

Hospital attaches are in a quandary as to what to feed the man. Mrs. Maxwell says it is useless to coax her husband to drink water.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

BERNHARDT STILL YOUTHFUL

The emotional, fervid and ever youthful Bernhardt is once again in our midst. With a repertoire of 24 plays, she will tour this country for six months and will then visit Cuba and Mexico. Of course, "The Divine Sarah"—how many million times has she been called that?—has made the inevitable statement that this is her farewell tour, but American theater-goers are hardened, disillusioned. The most trusting patron of the drama, whose wide-eyed belief in the truth of many stage legends is almost pathetic, becomes cynical and peevish when the term "farewell tour" is used in connection with any celebrity, most of all Sarah of the burnished tresses. Sarah has "farewelled" too often.

But when you get right down to it, who wants her to retire, anyway? When a woman of 67 can play the part of a lithesome lad of 19—play it wonderfully, with all the grace and vivacity which the role demands—why should she retire? Why shouldn't she go right on playing until she's 100 if she wants to? If Sarah has this idea in mind—and certainly it seems that she has—she can count on Americans backing her up for many a long year to come.

It has been said in fact one reads it in every account of Mme. Bernhardt's career, that she looks barely half her age. That, of course, isn't so; to say that the world-famous French actress appears to be only about 34 of the stage "in real life" is an exaggeration. But that her figure is as slender and straight as any girl's, her eyes bright and her complexion clear and healthy, cannot be denied.

Interested in every question of the day, well informed on many of them, a sculptor, painter and poet of no mean ability, as well as the greatest living actress, Sarah Bernhardt is a wonderfully interesting individual. One quality which she possesses to a marked degree is seldom mentioned and that is her womanliness—motherliness perhaps expresses this characteristic better. Those near and dear to her—her son and his wife and the little grandchild to whom she is devoted for instance—do not know her as "brilliant," "fascinating," "intense," but merely as a tender-hearted woman of many lovable qualities.

GOVERNMENT HEALTH ADVISER

When Theodore Roosevelt discovered some years ago that the Panama Canal could never be built until the yellow fever plague was conquered, he appointed a commission of medical men to discover the cause of the scourge and the means of preventing it. The splendid work of that commission everybody knows; but not everyone is aware that the members of the commission were named by a private citizen, Dr. William H. Welch, of Baltimore. Dr. Welch has occupied for years the unique position of unofficial adviser to the United States government in all large matters relating to the public health. There is hardly a single body that has to do with the national health which does not include Dr. Welch among its members.

As president of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research in New York, Human Life says, he has helped to inspire many of the great discoveries which have come out of that laboratory from Dr. Simon Flexner and others. Not long ago the Carnegie Institution in Washington needed a chairman for its executive committee, which has general oversight of all the Institution's manifold scientific activities. Dr. Welch was elected, and although the Carnegie research workers are busy with many other problems besides those of medicine, he takes almost as much interest in the Institution's new non-magnetic yacht and its observatory in the Andes as in his own particular subject.

As a pathologist Dr. Welch has won a world-wide reputation. Occupying the professorship in this science at Johns Hopkins University since its foundation, he has made during the last twenty-five years many important contributions to our knowledge of diphtheria, typhoid fever, malaria, Asiatic cholera, kidney troubles, and other diseases.

J. J. HILL 72 YEARS OLD

James J. Hill, of St. Paul, celebrated his 72d birthday anniversary a few days ago. The heading reads, "J. J. Hill 72 Years Old." Perhaps it would have been nearer correct if it read, "James J. Hill, 72 Years Young." If there is another man in the United States who has passed the allotted time of three score years and ten, and, having done as much work in his lifetime as James J. Hill, "Empire Builder of the Northwest," still retains as keen an intellect and can yet do as much important work in a day, St. Paul would like to know who he is.

Mr. Hill's son, Louis W. Hill, as president of the Great Northern railroad, has relieved his father of much work, but in the office of president of the board, James J. Hill finds enough to do to keep him busy every day. His hand is still on the helm and nothing escapes his notice. Evidence of Mr. Hill's keenness of mind was amply given in the address he delivered before the National Conservation Congress in St. Paul. Some of the epigrams contained in that address will be quoted in years to come.

Mr. Hill's St. Paul home is on Summit avenue, a residence street equalling in beauty any in the world. From the rear of his house Mr. Hill has a view of the Mississippi river and the beautiful bluffs beyond that provides a picture no artist could truthfully portray. In his home are priceless collections of art.

"During the big conservation congress in St. Paul recently," said Mr. Hill, "we talked about conserving water and conserving land; conserving coal and conserving iron; it's too bad somebody didn't say a word about conserving common sense. That's what the country needs right now—to conserve common sense."

JUDGE WHO TRIED CRIPPEN

Lord Alverstone, chief justice of England, is the judge before whom Dr. Harvey H. Crippen was tried for the murder of his wife, and it was he who sentenced the American dentist to be hanged. Lord Alverstone is regarded in England as having exceptional judicial ability. He was born in December, 1842, the second son of Thomas Webster, C. C., and Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Richard Calthrop, Swinhead Abbey, Lincolnshire. He was educated at King's College School, at Charterhouse, and at Trinity College, Cambridge, where he was Scholar, thirty-fifth Wrangler, and third-class Classic. He became a barrister in 1868; joined the South-Eastern Service circuit; later, was appointed Tufman, and, after that, Postman, of the Court of Exchequer. He took silk ten years after he was called. In 1880 he contested Bewdley, and five years later he became M. P. for Launceston.

From the same year until 1900, when he was appointed Lord Chief Justice of England, he was M. P. (Conservative) for the Isle of Wight. He was attorney-general from 1885 to 1886, from 1886 to 1892, and from 1895 to 1900. In the last-named year he became Master of the Rolls. In 1873 he married Louisa, only daughter of William Calthrop, of Withern, Lincolnshire.

The first part of the lord chief justice's summing up in the celebrated case consisted of an analysis of Crippen's own story. After telling the jurors they must be satisfied upon the evidence the crown had made out, or otherwise the prisoner was entitled to acquittal, Lord Alverstone said the jury would agree that Crippen, if guilty, was an extraordinary man, who had committed a ghastly crime and had covered it up in most brutal and callous manner. If Crippen was innocent, the judge declared, it was impossible to fathom his mind.

HUMOR IN THESE VERDICTS

Quaint Ideas and Expressions Recorded as Having Been Rendered by Corner's Juries.

Referring to a verdict recently given by a coroner's jury that death was "caused by the medical evidence," the British Medical Journal says: "That verdict may be added to those cited in the report of the select committee on death certification, where Dr. Ogle is quoted as saying: 'One verdict came before me a little time ago which was this: "A man died from stone in the kidney, which stone he swallowed when lying on a gravel path in a state of drunkenness." That was given as a verdict. I thought some joke had been played, and I wrote down about it, and found it was an absolute fact. Another one is like this: "Child three months old, found dead, but no evidence whether born alive." These novel judgments recall that an up-state newspaper not long ago spoke of taking a murdered man's "post-mortem" statement.

Kidding Worse Than Cutting.

Talk about making good with your friends, a New Orleans man told everybody he knew that he was going to Philadelphia for the dual purpose of seeing the world's baseball series and having a slight surgical operation performed. Reaching this city, he consulted a specialist, and was told that an operation was not necessary. "But, doctor," the New Orleans party urgently interposed, "it must be done."

"Why must it?" wonderingly queried the surgeon.

"Because," was the startling rejoinder of the southern man, "I told all the boys at home that I was going to have an operation performed, and if I don't make good they will kid the life out of me."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

You Can Rely on Resinol to Do Its Work Quickly and Perfectly.

Have been troubled with dry Eczema for several months, and have tried many different remedies, but I have gotten more relief and better results with two applications of Ungt. Resinol than all other remedies. Will gladly recommend it whenever and wherever I can.

A. E. Hatch, D.D.S., Cleveland, Ohio.

Mixing His Dates.

There is a story of a man who was so transported with joy as he stood up at the altar rail to be married, that his thoughts reverted to a day when he stood up at the prisoner's bar in a court of justice to plead "guilty" or "not guilty" to a criminal charge. So powerfully did that, the most painful event of his life, obtrude itself upon his mind, that when the clergyman put the question, "Will thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" and so on, the poor distracted bridegroom answered with startling distinctness, "Not guilty, so help me God!"—From Tuckerman's "Personal Recollections."

Scant Pasturage.

"I am afraid that moths will get into my bathing suit," said Maude. "It would be a shame," replied Maymie. "The poor things would starve to death."

ANOTHER BUMP FOR GENIUS.

The Amateur Poet—Whatever I do, I do with my whole soul.

His Wife (sadly)—I know you do, dear, but it would be such a help if you'd give it up and do things with your hands.

HEALTH AND INCOME

Both Kept Up on Scientific Food.

Good sturdy health helps one a lot to make money.

With the loss of health one's income is liable to shrink, if not entirely dwindle away.

When a young lady has to make her own living, good health is her best asset.

"I am alone in the world," writes a Chicago girl, "dependent on my own efforts for my living. I am a clerk, and about two years ago through close application to work and a boarding-house diet, I became a nervous invalid, and got so bad off it was almost impossible for me to stay in the office a half day at a time.

"A friend suggested to me the idea of trying Grape-Nuts food which I did, making it a large part of at least two meals a day.

"Today, I am free from brain-tire, dyspepsia, and all the ills of an over-worked and improperly nourished brain and body. To Grape-Nuts I owe the recovery of my health, and the ability to retain my position and income.

Read "The Road to Wellville," in pks. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

THE MAYSVILLE LEDGER, which "utter" worship at the shrine of ROOSEVELT, now refers to his "meddlesome mouthings." Don't kick a man when he is down. Those meddlesome mouthings formerly sold at one dollar a word and were as liquid honey to the Republican palate.—Cynthiana Democrat.

We are not kicking at Teddy now. We hit at him before he was down. It was the unanimous opinion that ROOSEVELT was making a meddlesome ass of himself by jumping into the campaign. The result speaks for itself. But it's a good thing for both people and party and makes the lines clear for the sweeping re-election of TAFT in 1912, and ROOSEVELT will whoop it up for Lil' WILLIE. As for Mr. ROOSEVELT, THE PUBLIC LEDGER is proud that it worshiped at his political shrine. The great energy displayed and great work accomplished by President ROOSEVELT can never be denied by anybody or anything. He made one of the greatest Presidents in American history. Even the Democrats admit it. His conduct since his return from Africa has met the universal condemnation of the world. Not a single newspaper, except his own publication, "The Outlook," has had a word of commendation or apology for the Colonel's great butting-in stunt. He was a contributory cause for the recent Democratic landslide. But what's the diff? We'll all forgive him. He was given the "Third Degree" and bumped the bumps a la BILLY BRYAN; however, unlike BRYAN, TEDDY will "come back" just enough to recoup his fallen numbers and again take his place high in the councils of his party and the world's Parliament of leaders and workers.

WHAT has become of "the New Nationalism?"

Be a booster for Maysville. The year 1911 is going to be the red letter year in Maysville's history.

"A MONKEY and a parrot time" is about what is coming at Washington after March 4th, 1911. It will be worth going miles to see the fun, with the Honorable CHAMP CLARK Chief Democratic Ringmaster, and OWSLEY STANLEY and "Big OLLIE" to sic 'em on.

MAYSVILLE looks forward to the year 1911 as the brightest in all her history. We are going to do things next year. The indications are that Maysville's total business for the next twelve months, and her civic growth, will exceed any year's total in all her history. Watch Maysville grow.

THE HON. THEODORE ROOSEVELT will find that the Constitution of the United States is a rag that he cannot very well clean his political guns with. One can hardly magnify the importance of a free-born American citizen's "Constitutional rights." It's the greatest heritage we have.

MORE than 36,500,000 cubic yards of material were removed from all parts of the Panama Canal during the year, of which almost 15,000,000 were from the Culebra cut and almost 10,000,000 from the Chagres section. About 35,000,000 cubic yards remain to be removed from the Culebra cut before this section of the canal is completed.

Consumption Often Develops From Pneumonia

Consumption readily attacks those who have had pneumonia. Many sufferers from tuberculosis give a history of having had pneumonia. The lungs thus weakened are more easily attacked by the germs that cause consumption. For all those with "weak lungs," especially those who have had pneumonia Eckman's Alternative is the appropriate remedy. Cures of consumption are accomplished by Eckman's Alternative. But take it in time. There is no wisdom in waiting until Tuberculosis is established. Health is never fully valued until sickness comes. A remarkable recovery follows:—1240 Powelton Ave., Phila., Pa. Gentlemen: "I wish I had known of Eckman's Alternative two years ago. Since taking it I have gained twenty-eight pounds and I cannot but be very thankful to you and the Almighty God for the great blessing and change of health it has brought me." (Signed) THOMAS REILLY. Eckman's Alternative cures Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Affections. Ask for booklet of cured cases and write to the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence. For Sale by all leading druggists and J. James Wood & Son in Maysville.

30 Years of Success

Thos. J. Chenoweth Offers a Remedy for Catarrh. The Medicine Costs Nothing If it Fails

When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when I offer that medicine on my own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe me, or at least put my claim to a practical test when I take all the risk. These are facts which I want the people to substantiate. I want them to try Rexall Muc-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of enviable success in his record. I receive more good reports about Rexall Muc-Tone than I do of all other catarrh remedies sold in my store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Muc-Tone is, it would be the only catarrh remedy I would have any demand for. Rexall Muc-Tone is quickly absorbed and by its therapeutic effect tends to disinfect and cleanse the entire mucous membrane tract, to destroy and remove the parasites which injure the membrane tissues, to soothe the irritation and heal the soreness, stop the mucous discharge, build up strong, healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the mucous cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

I urge you to try Rexall Muc-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply come and tell me, and I will quickly return your money without question or quibble. I have Muc-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Maysville only at my store—The Rexall Store, Thos. J. Chenoweth, corner Second and Sutton streets.

Dr. Crippen Hanged This Morning

LONDON, November 23d, 9:30 a. m.—Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen was hanged at 9:02 this morning in the yard of Pentonville Prison for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore. The body will probably be buried in quick lime in the prison yard. An evening paper caused much excitement by flooding the city with placards that Dr. Crippen had made a written confession. Every one in a position to know denies this. Ethel Leneve said: "I was the last person to see Dr. Crippen, and so far as my knowledge extends he has not made such a statement." Ethel Leneve has booked passage on the steamship Majestic, which sails from Southampton for New York tomorrow.
